tion, whereupon tien. Wood abrogated the law creating the Bar Association and revoked its charter.

Some of the Judges trying the postal cases, according to Dr. Desvernenie, were expectures of Gen. Wood, in that they were appointed by him and were removable at his will in case they refused to obey his orders admitting exparte evidence. They obeyed Gen. Wood's instructions, construed his orders into a command that exparte evidence be admitted in the postal cases, and the result was a practical miscarriage of justice in the Rathbone case.

Most of Dr. Desvernenie's testimony was brought out by Senator Hanna, who was in the committee room all day. It is understood that a number of witnesses suggested by Mr. Hanna will be called.

The committee adjourned to meet next Monday, when Charles S. Diehl, assistant general manager of the Associated Press, will be questioned regarding Gen. Wood's request to have "Bellairs" retained asscorrespondent at Havana.

EDITOR BURNED IN EFFIGY. North Carolina Editors Condemn the Act of Students of Trinity College.

Editorial Association, which happened to be in Washington on its annual excursion when the students of Trinity College of Durham, N. C., burned in effigy yesterday Editor Josephus Daniels of the Charlotte News and Observer for his utterances regarding the Bassett and Booker Washingon incident, spent all of to-day in a spirited and at times acrimonious discussion as to what official action it should ake. Some of the editors favored resoutions condemning in no uncertain terms he trustees of the college who voted to sustain Prof. Bassett, but between these extremists and those who desired no action by the association a compromise was reached on a resolution condemning the action of the students in burning Mr. Dan-

The resolutions were adopted with but three dissenting votes. Many of those who urged non-action declined, however, to vote either for or against the resolutions. The Bassett incident arose over an article published in the South Atlantic Monthly by Dr. J. E. Bassett, professor of history at Trinity College, in which he praised the work of Booker Washington and asserted that he was the greatest man except Robert at Trinity College, in which he praised that he was the greatest man, except Robert E. Lee, that the South had produced in the past century. Among those who were most urgent in demanding the removal of Bassett was Editor Daniels.

The trustees were finally forced to take action, and voted 18 to 7 to retain Dr. Bassett, the principal grounds being that any other course would be against tolerance of thought and freedom of speech.

Trinity College is the richest and one of the most influential colleges in the South. James A. Duke, president of the Tobacco Trust, and his father, Washington Duke, and his brother, B. N. Duke, have repeatedly endowed it with buildings, lands and money. B. N. Duke is one of its trustees and voted in favor of Dr. Bassett.

PASSAIC'S CIVIC PRIDE FEAST

AND REJOICE WITH THE AID OF HERR BAHNSEN'S WINE.

President Woodrow Wilson Was Guest of Honor, and the City Showed Magnanimity by Inviting Mayor Hinchliffe the Rival City, Paterson.

Passaic, N. J., Dec. 3 .- The city of Passaic rose in all the beauty of its civic pride to-night and gave a dinner to itself and President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton University. The menu cards noted that the dinner was given to Dr. Wilson by the citizens of Passaic. Some of the members of the dinner committee insisted that the affair was given by the Citizens' Protective Association of Passaic in honor of the WASHINGTON, Dec. 3-The North Carolina city's civic pride. A member of another committee explained the dinner in this

> "The member of the Board of Trade, of which Judge William W. Watson of the District Court is the chairman, thought that such a function would be a good ad for the town and so they got it up.

> But however much those who had anything to do with the affair might differ as to the reason for it, they all agreed that it should properly be called a civic pride banquet. Passaic is proud of itself, has been for at least six months, and it don't care who knows it.

> Something like six months ago the Board of Trade planted a hedgerow beside the tracks of the Erie Railroad for two or three blocks either side of the Passaic station. The Board of Trade has watched over and nurtured that hedgerow ever since, and points to it as an evidence of the city's inherent love of beautiful landscapes and of its civic pride.

Then, after the floods descended and the winds blew and beat upon Passaic and its bridges last October, the Citizens' Protective Association jumped into the breach, stopped a grab game on the building of temporary bridges, saved the city about $100,000 and added new lustre to the city's civil pride.

But, somehow or other, the world didn't eem to hear much about the Passaic variety of civic pride, while it knew all the details of the civic pride of Paterson, only four miles away. Of course, so many of certain kinds of things didn't happen in Passaic as they did in Paterson, and Passaic was glad of it.

Still Passaic had its flood this year, and it was just as good a flood as Paterson had. Moreover, it had a flood last year and it has had a few fires that were fairly illumina-

From its floods Passaic has rescued itself and from its ashes it has arisen unterrified and undaunted and it has always been just as independent as Paterson about refusing outside assistance.

But while Paterson has had its horn publicly exalted and its daughters drugged Passaic hasn't had either, so it is decided to celebrate its own civic enterprises by giving itself a dinner and bidding to the feast as its guests of honor President Roosevelt, President Wilson, United States Senators John Kean, Jr., and John F. Dryden former Atterney-General Robert H den, former Atterney-General Robert H. McCarter, Judge Pitney of the Supreme Court, Gov. Murphy, and, just to show that there is no iii feeling between the two cities, Mayor John Hinchliffs of Pater-

It seems to be the general opinion that Harry Meyers did more work in arranging the dinner than anybody else, with the possible exception of Isaac W. England. And so Passaic, in its civic pride, wants the activity of Messrs. Meyers and England Mr. Meyers, it would seem, is something a man of affairs in Passaic. In the first ce, he's a member of the Passaic Republican county committee, although, to show his independence and his civic pride, he was very largely instrumental in bringing about the election last fall of Charles A. Bergen, the Democratic candidate for Sheriff.

Apart from politics Mr. Meyers is a lawyer, brewer, coal dealer, banker, contractor and builder. In fact he has what might called an airtight cinch on the industri most public spirited citizens of the city and he has automobiled many miles in the to insure its success. Besides Mr. Eng-land got President Wilson to accept an invitation to attend the dinner and make speech.

Both these men have civic pride to burn Court Justice Dickey in Brooklyn yester-; and so have most of the other members of the dinner committee, but the real simon-pure, all wool and yard wide article was displayed by Herr Christian Bahnsen, general superintendent of the Gera Woollen Mills. When Herr Bahnsen learned the real object of the dinner, he insisted that he be permitted to show his own particular. rivate civic pride by making contribution it other than $3 for a ticket.

The dinner committee was willing, and so Mr. Bahnsen announced that out of his private stock of rare old claret he wanted to contribute to the dinner seventy-five bottles to be served with the fish, when all good claret ought to be served.

It is a pleasure to record that if Herr Bahnsen's civic pride is of the same quality as his claret, it's the finest brand to be and in or out of the State of New Jer The dinner was given at the Acquack anonk Club, which, up to three or four years ago, was the house of worship of St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church. Where the organ used to be the club's wet grocery counter now stands, and the guests' table was on the site of where the choir stalls used to stand.

The billiard room, turned into a banquet hall, was prettily decorated with holly and Virginia creeper, from which depended small red bells, whose particular significance

Mayor Howe, who has been Passaic's Mayor for five or six years, presided. At his right sat President Wilson and at his left was Senator Kean. Off to the Mayor's right among the shrubbery sat Mayor-elect Greenlie. Mayor Hinchliffe sat directly opposite masquerading as Prince Archibald de Mayor Howe, and, in a spirit of hospitality, the diners gave to a mention of his name by President Wilson the greatest applause offered to any other spoken of at the dinner with the exception of that of President Roosevelt. Judging by the applause which greeted the President's party the Passais section the President's name, the Passaic section of Jersey is solid for Roosevelt. The President got his when Mayor Howe, after announcing that Senator Dryden and some others couldn't be present, read the following letter: WASHINGTON, Nov 25, 1903.

MY DEAR MR. Howe: I am sorry that it will not be possible for me to accept the courteous invitation which you extend to me to attend the Pessaic civic banquet on Dec. 3.

I should be more than pleased to be with you on that occasion, and to listen to the address of Dr. Wilson on "Civic Patriotisn."

We have before us many grave problems to solve and many important things to do, and if we are to be successful in the solving and the doing, the one absolutely essential quality which we must bring to every problem and to every deed, and without which true success is impossible, is intense Americanism—to be American in heart, in soul, in spirit and in purpose.

I am sure that this gathering of your citizens cannot fail to be fruitful of good. I thank you for the invitation. Sincerely yours, THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Hon. Charles M. Howe, Mayor, Passaic, N. J. Mayor Howe introduced Senator Kean Mayor Howe introduced Senator Rean as the first speaker. He said, in substance, that Passaic was all right and that the rest of the United States was getting on swimmingly, especially since the Spanish-American war. Then came President Wilson. some venerable Frinceton alumn, led by Edwin C. Moor, a Princeton under-graduate who sat at the speakers' table, gave Dr. Wilson the university yell while the others loudly applauded. show.

In the course of his speech he gave what some of the diners regarded as both a swat for the President in the short ribs and a mild boom for Mr. Cleveland, who is a lecturer at Princeton. Dr. Wilson said in part: "You see, the old horses know how to spare themselves on the hills and spend themselves on the levels. What we want in guiding the affairs of this nation now is the old horse, who knows when to go with deliberation and when at top speed." Continuing, Dr. Wilson said: TRIED WATER ON THE SNOW MUD true patriotism is that which is local in its rootage.

This community will never awake to its own betterment and best development through any abstract motive of duty, but only through a concrete image of its own life and interests, through a sort of ardent and enduring self-consciousness. You will find that there is mixed with all patriotic motives a certain pride in the past of the community, a consciousness of what it has been and is, and a desire for its distinction as a whole. Distrust the patriotism of a man who is always spending his feeling upon some distant object, whose energy does not seek the nearest duty, but the more remote. Every citizen who is thoughtful of the welfare of country should seek to see and understand his nearest duty and to do it with all thoughtfulness and yet without impatience.

Patience is, indeed, though one of the most difficult, yet one of the most indispensable virtues in a polity like our own, for the essence of that polity is consultation, movement not singly or in chosen groups but in the mass and multitude, so that in whatever we think or purpose we must carry masses of men with us; and so we need the sort of patience which is full of hope and equally full of persistence. out with a force of from 28 to 120 atmospheres with the help of compressed air.

Woodbury tried the experiment on the Bowery and in Hester and Essex streets and got so interested in it that he forgot all about being slated to speak on "The Cleaning of a Great City and the Handling of Its Wastes," at the Academy of Medicine, at 8:30 o clock in the evening. He reached the academy at 9:15 o'clock, breathless and mackintoshed, and showed the audience pictures of the carts he had been working with. He seemed to be very well satisfied with the experiment.

The four-inch snowfall did not give the snow contractor much trouble. William Bradley, who has the contract for removing snow this year as he had last year, got orders from the Street Cleaning Department to go to work yesterday morning even before it had stopped snowing, and, despite the fact that the work had not been mapped out altogether in the matter of procuring men and vehicles, Mr. Bradley had about 2,000 men and 1,000 carts at work in the afternoon. The department will not lend any men or carts for the work in this borough lest it derange the regular department work. The contractor is paid by the area cleaned, which it was found last year led to much better results.

By last night Contractor Bradley had cleaned Broadway from the Battery to Long Acre Square, Fifth avenue to Fifty-ninth street, Columbus avenue to 125th ninth street, Columbus avenue to testin street and 125th street to both rivers, as well as a good part of the Bowery. Last night his men went to work on the streets leading to the ferries. Superintendent Bouton said vesterday that all of the im-portant streets of the city would probably be cleaned by to-night providing it did not

The street railroad companies, which have an arrangement with the department for cleaning certain streets on which car lines run had gangs out yesterday. None of the lines was bothered much by the snowfall. Our Holiday assortment, which is now ready, includes hundreds of different styles in Lace trimmed, Embroidered, Initialed and Scalloped Edged goods, as well as every desirable kind of Hemstitched Handkerchief for men, women and children.

For many years we have made a specialty of dealing in pure Linen Handkerchiefs, and the lines now displayed are of the same character, style and attractiveness which have justly earned for this Department the designation of "The Home of the Handkerchief.

Our lines at 25c., 50c., 75c. and $1.00, which are among the most popular, are unusually large this year, and we believe that the styles are such as to enable us to fully satisfy any person of good taste-while we know that the values represented are the very best that can be obtained at these prices.

We make up especially for gifts boxes containing one dozen Initial Handkerchiefs. Men's, $3.00, 4.50, and 6.00. Women's, $3.00, 4.00, and 6.00 a dozen.

We also have boxes of especially selected Ladies' Lace Trimmed and Embroidered Handkerchiefs at $3.00, 6.00 and

HELD UP THE RICH EX-COP.

McKeown Tells the Police of an Attempt to Get $600. Joseph G. McKeown of 602 East 148th street, who used to be a policeman and who now owns a lot of houses in The Bronx and is building more, reported to the Tremont police yesterday that he had been a victim of a savage assault on Wednesday He says that he started from the Mount Morris Bank with about $600, and that on his way he dropped in at his house at 2359 Lorillard place, which is rented to Mrs. William Nelson. As he was going into the back yard, he says, a man who had followed him in a trolley car struck him on the head with an axe handle so forcibly that the weapon broke. He says that he fell unconscious only to wake while the assailant was trying only to wake while the assailant was trying to pull his watch from his pocket.

Then, according to McKeown, he pulled his old police revolver and the man edged away. He pulled the trigger, and for the first time in thirty years the gun refused to go off. Mrs. Nelson came to the door at that time and that scared the thug away. They later found the $600 on the ground about twenty feet away from the spot about twenty feet away from the spot where McKeown was knocked down. McKeown went across the street where his son John J. McKeown, a sergeant in the Alexander avenue police station, lives He didn't find him in, so he went ahead and organized a searching party. The thug was not found.

Gov. Odell and Kings County.

The Republican statesmen in Kings county were interested yesterday in the rumor that Gov. Odell was arranging to pry into their affairs and shake up five of six Assembly district leaders. Chairman Jacob Brenner is going to Albany next week to see Gov. Odell, but no one expects that the conference will result in any important changes in the management of the Kings county organization.

> GRAPE-NUTS. ABOUT FEAR

Often Comes From Lack of Right Food

Napoleon said that the best fed soldiers were his best soldiers, for fear and nervousness come quickly when the stomach is not nourished. Nervous fear is a sure sign that the body is not supplied with the right food.

A Connecticut lady says: "For many years I have been a sufferer from indigestion and heart trouble and in almost con stant fear of sudden death, the most acute suffering possible. Dieting brought on weakness, emaciation and nervous exhaustion and I was a complete wreck physically and almost a wreck mentally. "I tried many foods but could not avoid the terrible nausea followed by vomiting that came after eating until I tried Grape Nuts. This food agreed with my palate and stomach from the start. This was about a year ago. Steadily and surely a change from sickness to health came until now I have no symptoms of dyspepsia and can walk 10 miles a day without being greatly fatigued. I have not taken a drop greatly fatigued. I have not taken a drop of medicine since I began the use of Grape-Nuts and people say I look many years younger than I really am.

"My poor old sick body has been made over and I feel as though my head has been, too. Life is worth living now and I expect to enjoy it for many years to come if I can keep away from bad foods and have Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
